THE CHINA MAIL.

HONGKONG, WEDNESDAY, MAY 2, 1877.

In continuation of our resumé of the Reports for 1875 on Trade at the Treaty Ports in China, published by order of the Inspector-General of Customs, we deal to-day with the home, or coasting trade of China, carried on in foreign keels under the Chinese and flags of other nations. This trade forms a very important feature in the commerce of the empire, and gives employment to more than three times the amount of tonnage engaged in the direct carrying trade between China and foreign countries. The trade consists in taking native produce from one port to another for either subsequent re-shipment abroad or for local consumption, and in distributing the foreign imports from Shanghai to, principally, Ningpo and the northern and Yangtze ports. Hongkong is, of course, regarded as a foreign port. The value of the outward coast trade at all the Treaty Ports—that is, of goods sent from one port to another—amounted during the year to Tls. 109,747,416, of which Tls. 56,417,417 represented indigenous exports, Tls. 15,210,269 native re-exports, and Tls. 36,119,730 foreign re-exports. The re-export of foreign goods from Shanghai constitutes one of the leading features of the trade at that port. The value of the foreign re-exports from the Settlement during 1875, amounted to Tls. 34,024,907. The total value of the Canton outward coast trade, including of course indigenous exports and native and foreign re-exports, amounted to only 3,539,988. The entries of vessels employed in the coast trade inwards were 6,664 vessels, aggregating 3,874,436 tons, and clearances 6,786 vessels, amounting to 3,873,081 tons. The following table gives the percentage of the share taken in regard to the value of cargoes by each nationality in the carrying trade between the Treaty Ports in 1875 and previous years. The extraordinary growth of the trade in Chinese vessels will be noticed:—

The "bloated aristocracy" of Siam appear to be making very laudable efforts to render themselves generally useful. Our Bangkok contemporary states that Mr Chumie, the King's Civil Architect, has a large number of young noblemen, at stipulated wages, moulding cornices and ornaments for the royal palace buildings, the life of which the Siamese have been accustomed to order from China. A Prince is also employed in superintending certain works intended for exhibition at the international exposition in France next year. We noticed the fact a few weeks ago that the Bangkok correspondent of a San Francisco paper had prophesied that the Siamese people would "loom up suddenly some day and eclipse even the more advanced nations of the earth by their progress and development." The Siamese aristocracy are evidently already ahead of their European contemporaries, and we are sorry we treated the prophecy of this correspondent so lightly at the time.

THE OPIUM QUESTION AT HOME.

OUR London correspondent furnishes us with an interesting account of the proceedings at the Chinese Legation in London on the occasion of a Deputation from the Anti-Opium Society waiting upon their Excellencies Kuo and Liu, to express their views on the opium question and to elicit the opinions of the Representatives of China in return. The interview was certainly of an original character and is of considerable importance in its bearing upon the subject. The speakers on behalf of the Deputation did not disguise their suspicions that the Chinese Government was not taking quite such vigorous steps to put down opium smoking as might be wished—an omission for which Kuo pleaded only some very general excuses; while in return His Excellency pointed out that it was impossible to do away with the opium traffic, as if England withdrew from the trade other nations would soon be found to enter so lucrative and profitable a field. These two points would seem conclusive to most people as to the impossibility of any good being effected by the action of a body like the Anti-Opium Society, however laudable their intentions may be upon purely philanthropic grounds. Nor does it appear from the report of the proceedings that the Chinese Envoy was very enthusiastic upon the subject. Most certainly, if he were, he would have refrained from stating the very best point for the Home Government to make in favour of continuing the trade upon its present basis; and it is almost impossible to avoid the conclusion that the expressions which were given utterance to fairly represented the phase which the subject either has already assumed or is likely to assume, on the question being discussed at home between the Chinese Representative and our Government, whatever the abstract merits of the case may be, so soon as the matter becomes reduced to a practical issue, it becomes evident that nothing can be done. No doubt under the circumstances the Chinese Minister will see the benefit of treating it rather in its financial than its humanitarian aspect, and will probably get an extra duty allowed, as the Government will not be disposed to have any dispute whatever on so unpopular a subject. This at least seems to be the logical conclusion from what has taken place at the Legation in London. The interview was certainly in no way encouraging to those who wish to see the use of opium put down. No prospect is held out of this being done by the action of the Chinese Government, and it is made only too clear that so long as China wants Opium from abroad, it will be able to obtain it from one country or another. The paragraph which we published last night, stating that a Portuguese Company has been formed with the view of growing opium in Mozambique, shows pretty conclusively that if the supply of opium from India were stopped, the Chinese would very soon get as much of the drug as they wanted from other quarters.

Foreign office, and will be issued at the same time.

We understand that the directors of the Austrian Lloyd Steam Company have decided on laying down at their building yard at Trieste two screw steamers of 3,000 tons. They have at present on the stocks one of 2,000 tons, and two small steamers for local service. It is rumoured that the line to Bombay will be shortly extended on to the Straits and China. At the yard of the Messageries Company is the Yangtze (at first named the Tanquin), a steamer of over 3,500 tons and 600 H.P., which will be ready in August. The Sankof, a similar vessel, will probably be launched early next year.

The Chinese Envoys are commencing to go about to the various public institutions and other places of interest. They have visited the General Post-office and the Telegraphic Department, being conducted over the establishment by Lord John Manners, the Post-Master General; and on the evening of the same day they were present at Christ's Hospital and witnessed the public singing of the boys. They were much struck when told that this custom had been struck for over 300 years, a fact which would somewhat shake the Chinese notion that the outer Barbarian has only commenced to become civilised since he came into contact with the Celestial Empire. They expressed admiration at the dress of the boys and their conduct. They were also present at a reception by Lady Derby at the Foreign office, and another at Lady Egerton of Tatton's, at the latter of which they met the poet Browning and other celebrities. Two have himself gained some laurels as a poet, and expressed great satisfaction at meeting Mr. Browning, with whom he had some conversation through one of his interpreters. Lady Kwo—as she is generally styled—has paid a visit to the Art School for Ladies' Embroidery, where she adjusted one of the frames correctly and embroidered a few stitches. Yesterday the Envoys, accompanied by the Right Hon. R. A. Cross, the Home Secretary, paid a visit to the British Museum.

The Peruvian Congress has authorised the Executive to contract with Olyphant and Co. for the introduction of Chinese labour into Peru, in conformity with the existing treaty between Peru and China, and voted the law granting a yearly subsidy for this purpose of 160,000 soles. Congress, however, withheld its sanction of the return of guano and nitrate already agreed upon between the Government and Messrs. Olyphant. It was alleged that the Government would, nevertheless, insist upon its right to carry out the original agreement on the ground that Congress has no power to rescind an executive measure entered upon with the authority of the Legislature. It was urged that Peru must be supplied with labour, which it was believed could only be profitably obtained from China.

(Before James Russell, Esq.)

May 2, 1877.

ASSAULT.

Chan Atp, a bricklayer, was charged by Man Ahee, a shopman, with assault upon the latter. The complaint was made by the defendant with stealing some clothing and money to the value of $20, and he had the complainant tied up and beaten, with the view of making him confess where he concealed the things and to restore them. The defendant was fined $5 or 14 days' hard labour.

WHAT OUR COOKS GENERALLY DO.

Lee Akee, a cook to Mr. J. D. Humphreys, was charged with stealing beef as follows:—The complainant told the defendant to get some beef to make a beef-steak for Mrs. Humphreys, who was unwell. The complainant went to the kitchen to examine the meat and found it was not good. He saw also a piece of beef which had been bought for beef-steak. He asked the defendant how much it weighed and the defendant said it was 2½ lbs. As the piece of meat looked too small for that weight, he took it upstairs for the purpose of testing the weight. He found that it weighed only 1 lb. 13 oz. The defendant then sent up another piece, saying it should have formed part of the original piece, but with this addition the meat only weighed 2 lbs. 1½ oz. The Magistrate sent for the butchers from whom the defendant bought the meat, and found that he did not have what he represented. He was consequently sent to two months' hard labour.

Two Chinamen were discovered by a police peon attempting to break into a house in Tide Terrace last night (April 22), and, on seeing the policeman, they ran away. The policeman followed, and a Kling, who was called by the policeman to render him assistance, attempted to hold one of the Chinamen, when the latter stabbed him, inflicting a dangerous wound, and afterwards threw the knife at the police peon, cutting his face severely. The culprit was afterwards arrested, and house-breaking instruments were found in his possession.

Bombay, April 5.—There was a stormy meeting of the Bombay Corporation yesterday, when a vote of Rs. 10,000 for the famine-stricken people here was proposed, one part maintaining it is the duty of Government to provide funds for the relief of distress, the other that no invasion of distressed people has occurred. The Police Commissioner declared he would convey no more people to hospitals unless he knew how they will be fed there. The discussion reviewed adversely the Government reduction of numbers on relief works in the district. Eventually the money was voted only for Hospital relief, leaving the burden of feeding on the Government and on private charity. Indignation was expressed that the Government had not called a public meeting but had actually hired private charity. There was a lively passage of arms between the Editors of the Times of India and Bombay Gazette, who, as Justices, are Members of the Corporation.

London, April 6.—The text of the Russian Protocol published recognises the necessity of maintaining European concert, and favours the rectification of the Montenegrin frontier. It invites the Porte to replace its army on a peace footing, and takes cognisance of its promises of reforms and hopes for their energetic execution which the Ambassadors of the six guaranteeing Powers at Constantinople will watch, and, if disappointed, the Great Powers will consider together the best means of securing the well-being of the Christians in Turkey and the general peace.

Cattle are still dying of starvation in Bellary and North Arcot. The number of persons employed on relief works in Mysore is 75,000, and 52,000 are gratuitously fed. Prospects there have improved.

It repels interference in internal affairs of the Porte, and only consents to send an Envoy to St. Petersburg, and to disarm if Russia is disposed to disarm. The Turkish Chamber of Deputies has rejected the demands of Montenegro. St. Petersburg papers regard war between Russia and Turkey as inevitable.

London, April 10.—Replying to a question in the House of Commons, Lord Geo. Hamilton said the Secretary of State for India had recently asked the Governor of Bombay for his decision upon a Report of the Factory Commission, and urged a full enquiry into the alleged excessive employment of children.

Constantinople, April 11.—Safvet Pasha has notified to Montenegrin delegates that conditions of peace are unacceptable, the Chamber of Deputies having rejected them, but that the decision of the Senate is now awaited. London, April 14.—In the House of Lords last night Earl Derby, in submitting the circular of the Porte, said he regretted it was unsatisfactory and not at all conducive to a peaceful settlement. A long debate took place in the House of Commons. The Marquis of Hartington, in moving for additional papers, asked for the views of the Government, and how they reconciled the Protocol with the independence and integrity of the Porte. Mr. Gathorne Hardy, in replying, refused to lay a portion of the papers on the table, and said that England's last word, which would be in favour of peace, had not yet been uttered. England objected to make war on Turkey, who had done her no wrong. The Protocol was signed because the Government believed it would afford Russia a last chance of disarming. The motion was eventually withdrawn.

THE UNIVERSITY BOAT RACE.

New York, March 24.—Dispatches from London this morning reported, dated 7 o'clock, announce a fine, sunshiny morning. No particular increase in the street traffic is noticeable on account of the races.

Putney, 7 o'clock.—Betting five to four on Oxford. Very few people are here, owing to the earliness of the hour. The towing-path from Putney to Hammersmith is nearly empty. A tolerable calm breeze is getting up. A good many small boats are on the river, but nothing to compare with last year. There are few steamers. The weather is fair now but threatening. The main road from Putney to Mortlake is filled with traffic. It is thought the race will be closely contested.

Mortlake, 7.30 a.m.—Weather favorable; water smooth, and light southwest wind. The crowd about medium.

Mortlake, 8.17 a.m.—The crowd is increasing and is now large. The wind is rising.

London, March 24.—10 a.m.—It is now regarded certain that the race was a dead heat. The coxswain, judge and umpire sat next at 2 o'clock and decide whether Oxford won or the race was a dead heat. The reason for this is the ambiguous form of the judge's decision, namely: "A dead heat by two yards."

London, March 24.—The thirty-fourth University boat race was rowed this morning at an early hour, and the course was the usual one, on the Thames from Putney to Mortlake—distance four miles and two furlongs. Of the Cambridge eight, six participated in last year's contest, while of the Oxford crew four were ancient mariners, but the coxswain was a novice on the Thames. Canoes rowed in a now swiftest Winship boat, and the Oxford in a new Clasper boat. While the number of spectators was for a University race comparatively small, there was enough to make what would be an immense gathering elsewhere. The start was made at 8.27 a.m. Oxford took the water first and was eight feet ahead in half-a-dozen strokes. This lead they held to the Duke's Head, where the Cambridge crew drew up and were on even terms half way between the Head and Simon's yard. Off it's yard Cambridge got a lead of about four feet, which position was maintained at the 1 o'clock boat house. At this period in the race Cambridge rowed in better form. At Chavens Cottage, six furlongs from the starting point, the boats were about on a level. Oxford now forged ahead, and when about a mile had been rowed led by about a third of a length. At Crabtree Oxford led by only a few feet. At the Distillery, a mile and four furlongs from the starting point, Cambridge showed two or three feet in front. At the Oil Mills, two miles from the starting point, Oxford drew up alongside. At the bottom of Chiswick Eyot Oxford was again in front, being better together than Cambridge, who seemed much troubled by rough water. At Chiswick Church, three miles, Oxford had increased their advantage to two thirds of a length, and the race was apparently no longer in doubt. Rounding the bend into Horse-shoe Reach, Cambridge gained upon Oxford, but the latter drew away and won a length ahead of Balming Place, nine furlongs from the winning post. Cambridge made another effort, but only reduced Oxford's lead to two-thirds of a length. No further change occurred up to Barm's bridge, five furlongs further on, through which Oxford passed nearly a length ahead, and off the White Hart, four furlongs from the goal, was a length and some feet in advance. Of the Limer, Cambridge splurged, and reduced the lead of Oxford, which all at once got all aboard, as their bowman was seen to be in difficulty, and unable to use his oar properly. Cambridge was now within a third of a length of being on even terms with the Oxford, and a most exciting struggle followed from the ship to the winning post, stationed some distance from the ship. Cambridge would not be denied, and gradually but surely creeping up, the two crews went past the judge's level amid scenes of the wildest excitement ashore and afloat. The time was twenty-four minutes and ten seconds. The judge declared the race to be a dead heat.

London, March 24.—The Echo says of the result of the race:—It was very unexpected. At first all the telegrams announced that Oxford had won, and these we published.

The Poll Mail Gazette complains of the unbusinesslike way in which the judges acted, and says it will be a warning to University Presidents to abstain in the future from employing watermen for judges in general and John Phelps in particular.

THE PRINCE OF WALES AND JOURNALISM.

The prospects of the coming season are far from brilliant, and we are full here with more than the dulness of Mid-Cont, though Her Majesty, with her usual disregard for ecclesiastical times and seasons, while I write, holding a drawing-room, 36 persons, though to-day is a Friday to boot. The Prince of Wales has been astonishing the natives by giving a bachelor or men's dinner-party, at which the two principal guests were Joseph Chamberlain, the new ultra-democratic M.P. for Birmingham, and Mundella, one of the very advanced Liberal representatives of Sheffield. Don't be afraid, H. R. H. is not turning Radical. He may say, as the Emperor Joseph said during his visit to Paris before the first French Revolution, when a lady in a salon was boring him with philosophical republicanism. "Madame, mon maitre d'honneur, c'est d'être Royaliste." After playing the host to those two democratic M. Ps., Albert Edward honoured with his presence the house dinner of the Carlton, an incident the more significant that His Royal Highness seldom puts his foot in any club save the Marlborough, and that is non-political. He asked Chamberlain and Mundella to dinner simply because they had been prominent in welcoming him on the occasion of his State-visits to Birmingham and Sheffield respectively. Of course, it would not have done to invite "blasted Aristocrats" to meet two such Democrats as Chamberlain and Mundella. So Albert Edward gave them for fellow-guests Henry Labouchere, the Proprietor and Editor of Truth, and Fred. Greenwood the Editor of the Poll Mail Gazette. The two newspaper men being of the same trade do not seem to have agreed. At least, after the dinner-party, Labouchere announced in Truth that he had given up taking in the Poll Mail Gazette in favour of the Globe, and that the Poll Mail Gazette in his opinion, instead of "fulfilling its boast of being written by gentlemen for gentlemen," is written "by a prig for prigs." With this dinner at the Prince of Wales's, Greenwood may be said to have culminated. His story is an instructive one as showing that
